

GY-HM150/100: Are all SDHC Class 6 cards of equal quality?

While the recorded picture quality will not vary from one card manufacturer to another, there are significant differences in the speed, reliability and consistency from one card manufacturer to another.

JVC's ProHD cameras will provide outstanding performance on a wide range of SDHC cards, including inexpensive brands in most cases. We have tested various cards and are currently recommending San Disk, Panasonic and Toshiba as offering good reliability and consistency.

If you have experience with other brands, please feel free to comment.

Unique solution ID: #1125

Author: Dave Walton

Last update: 2010-09-15 05:51